Réplique d'arme historique par Davide Pedersoli.

Faithful reproduction of a percussion shotgun, manufactured in 1865 by the English gunsmith George Gibbs of Bristol. A rifle born to satisfy both aesthetic purists and shooters who compete in shooting at more than 900 meters.

Octagonal/cylindrical blued steel barrel. Walnut stock, checkered pistol grip and oiled finish. Top quality wooden butt plate and ebony butt. The weapon is equipped with a diopter with double adjustments. Derivable tunnel handlebar with spirit level delivered with fifteen inserts. Its pistol grip ensures a very good and pleasant grip.

- Black powder rifled gun.
- Barrel with 6 stripes at a pitch of 1:18" or 450 mm.

The Luxe version has engravings identical to those that can be observed on the original weapons.

The plate, the breech cap, the breech tail and the bridge are finely engraved "à l'anglaise". The stock is cut from a selected walnut piece.
