The shotgun of all records!

The Bristlen A Morges Standard model is equipped with an adjustable windage and height diopter. The trigger system is accompanied by a stecher giving the possibility of adjusting the shooting sensitivity up to 60 g.

The rifle is furnished with a palm rest and .44 caliber muzzle protector for loading. It is recommended for shooting at 50 meters. This reproduction, due to purely artisanal work, is produced in limited quantities.

This reproduction of Swiss shooting rifle is undoubtedly the very representation of elegance and quality. Faithfully reproduced in the smallest details, to the springs, screws, sight and sight, this copy of original rifle produced by Marc Bristlen between 1839 and 1860, in the city of Morges, in standard version has a plate and ornaments in jaspered steel. The stock is in walnut selected, finished with oil.
