A durable Cordura case to protect and transport a hunting rifle.

Country Sellerie offers the Country Cordura green CU5300 gun case , designed for transporting a shotgun. Measuring 130 cm in length, it features a profile that complements the gun's lines, with a height of 7.5 cm at the barrel end, 21.5 cm at the stock end, and 20 cm at the handles. Its durable Cordura construction helps protect the shotgun from scratches, dust, and superficial damage during transport. The reinforced end cap at the barrel end protects the most exposed area and incorporates a strap for hanging the case. Two handles facilitate gripping, while the shoulder strap provides a shoulder carrying option. Its understated green color, suitable for hunting, completes a lightweight and easy-to-handle case.

A Cordura case for transporting the rifle

The Country Sellerie CU5300 gun case uses durable Cordura to protect the firearm from scratches, dust, and minor damage during transport. Its 130 cm length and differentiated profile between the barrel and stock complement the shape of the shotgun.

Two carrying solutions

The two handles provide a direct grip for short trips. The shoulder strap allows for carrying over the shoulder when your hands need to remain free. Lightweight and easy to handle, this case is suitable for transporting your firearm between home, your vehicle, and your shooting range, in compliance with applicable regulations.

One end reinforced at the barrel end

The muzzle end, located on the barrel side, is reinforced to better protect it during transport. It also features a convenient hanging strap for storing the green rifle case when not in use.
