Rifle designed for shooting on metal silhouettes, adjustable ratchet adjustment, dovetail differentiated handlebars.

- Cannon 6 scratches in steps of 1:18 " or 460 mm.

New version of the Rolling Block, with tapered and bronzed octagonal barrel, case of receiver and marbled metal fittings. This rifle is very competitive in silhouette shooting, hence its name, and has an adjustable double tail trigger system. The butt, carved from a block of walnut, adopts the typical shape used for shooting in a standing position without support, or for shooting with crossed support sticks or finally, for shooting from a bench: the stock with a raised straight back obeys the current NRA rules. Large butt plate, diamond pistol grip, barrel ending in a metal mouthpiece.
