- 6" barrel
- Ergal frame (aircraft grade aluminum alloy).

- Revolutionary revolvers with the particularity of having the barrel in the axis of the lowest chamber of the barrel and not the upper chamber, as on conventional revolvers.
- This technical specificity makes it possible to bring the axis of recoil closer to that of the shooter's hand, thus limiting the ascent of the barrel and allowing a better control of the weapon and the firing in double tap closer together. Other features: Ergal carcass (aluminum alloy), Picatinny rails. Double and single action, except 2 "in CAD (double action only).
