Reproduction of a Napoleon pistol manufactured in St Etienne in 1806

This two-barrel pistol was manufactured in Saint-Etienne by Jean-Baptiste Gribeauval in 1806 by express order of the Emperor Napoleon I, and bears his badge on the handle. Napoleon used it as an itinerant pistol and as a double barrel, it offered a clear advantage against his adversaries, because of the slow process of recharging of the other pistols with sparks of the time.

Napoleon I Bonaparte (1769-1821), Emperor of France (1804-1815), consolidated and instituted several of the reforms of the French Revolution. He is considered one of the greatest military geniuses in history, conquering most of Europe. He has commanded very successful war campaigns, albeit with some similar defeats. Its aggressive wars of conquest became the largest military operations known so far in Europe, involving a number of soldiers never seen in the armies of the time.

Feel the protagonist of the Napoleonic conquests of the early 19th century with the DENIX reproduction of this pistol!
