An attractant specifically designed for predators

Developed after more than two years of testing, Black Fire Predator is designed to effectively attract foxes , badgers , raccoons , and other pest species. Its concentrated formula releases a persistent scent that encourages animals to frequent trapping or monitoring areas.

Three complementary fragrances

Each carton contains three 80g bottles offering different olfactory profiles:

- Wild : natural scent.
- Farm : food-grade flavoring.
- Ocean : exclusive olfactory composition.

This diversity makes it possible to adapt the attractant to the local habits of the animals and to vary the points of attraction.

Slow diffusion thanks to the sponge stopper

The integrated sponge system in the cap is one of the key advantages of Black Fire Predator. It gradually releases the odor compounds without the liquid coming into direct contact with the ground, thus limiting losses through evaporation or seepage and significantly extending the product's effectiveness.

Two modes of use

The recommended method is to suspend the bottle by its sponge from a branch or tree trunk to optimize scent diffusion while limiting direct access for animals. Alternatively, the open bottle can be placed at the base of a tree or near a passageway, with the sponge facing upwards.

Accessories included

The product comes with three extra caps , allowing the bottles to be easily resealed after use in order to preserve the olfactory qualities of the attractants.

Packaging

This product is sold in a carton of 3 bottles of 80g , including the three flavors Wild , Farm and Ocean .

FAQ

What animals are targeted by Black Fire Predator?

This attractant is designed to attract foxes, badgers, raccoons, and other nuisance species.

How does the sponge system work?

The integrated sponge gradually diffuses odors while limiting evaporation and direct contact of the product with the floor, thus improving its duration of effectiveness.
