A fully padded case to protect the rifle during transport.

The Country Sellerie quilted, honeycomb-patterned rifle case measures 128 cm in length and 25.5 cm in maximum width. Its fully quilted interior securely holds the rifle between two protective surfaces and helps absorb shocks during transport. The double-slider zipper allows the case to open wide for easy insertion and removal of the firearm. Two reinforced handles ensure a balanced grip, while the shoulder strap provides a second carrying option. Brown accents at the ends complement the green exterior finish.

A padded case for carrying a rifle

The Country Sellerie rifle case features thick, honeycomb-patterned padding on both inner surfaces. The rifle sits between these protective ridges, which minimize direct contact with the outer casing and help absorb shocks during transport.

A wide opening for easy weapon installation

The zippered closure follows the contour of the case and has two sliders. This design allows the two sides to be opened wide for easy positioning of the rifle without unnecessary handling. The case is 128 cm long and 25.5 cm at its widest point.

Two carrying methods

The two reinforced handles offer a central and balanced grip. A shoulder strap completes the equipment for carrying the sheath over the shoulder. Brown panels protect and decorate the ends, contrasting with the green outer shell.

FAQ - Country Sellerie 128 cm rifle case

Is a length of 128 cm sufficient to verify compatibility?

No. It is also necessary to compare the width and overall size of the equipped rifle with the space actually available inside the case.

Does this sheath replace a rigid briefcase?

This is a soft, padded case. Its honeycomb interior protects the weapon during transport, but it does not have the rigid structure of a hard case.

Can this case accommodate a rifle with a scope?

If the height from the bottom of the pistol grip or magazine to the top of the scope does not exceed 24 cm, you can store your rifle with its scope in the case. The honeycomb padding will protect your scope from impacts.
