Powder ginner that works with any type of scale.

The Lyman Brass Smith Powder Trickler has been designed with all reloader requirements in mind. It starts with a cast aluminum, anti-static, height-adjustable body. The base is machined from a solid piece of steel, giving the gin significant weight and height adjustment. It comes with an aluminum feed tube that can be extended with the extension provided. It works with any type of electronic or mechanical scale. The large diameter wheel on the feed tube gives you increased precision and control when flowing powder.
