A military heritage for sport shooting

The ZIG M1911 A1 follows the specifications of the 1911 military rifle adopted in 1926, with its understated profile and proven mechanics. Designed for shooters looking for a weapon faithful to the original, it is particularly appreciated in the context of TAR (Tir aux armes Règlementaires) .

Two calibers for more versatility

Available in .45 ACP , the historic caliber of the 1911, and in 9x19 mm , more economical and accessible, this model adapts to the preferences of sport shooters. Its 5-inch barrel guarantees consistent accuracy and balanced recoil management.

Forged steel and Parkerized finish

The forged steel frame and breech provide strength and durability, even under heavy use. The Parkerized finish, a phosphating surface treatment, protects against corrosion while maintaining the original military aesthetic.

Ergonomics and authenticity

The checkered wooden scales ensure a firm and comfortable grip, while reinforcing the weapon's classic charm. The triple safety system (thumb, hammer, grip) reinforces reliability and confidence with every shot.

Relax and aim

The single-action trigger (2.5 kg) offers a clean and predictable trigger pull, ideal for precision shooting. The simple and robust A1-type fixed sights remain faithful to the military model while ensuring clear aiming.

Colt Series 70 Compatibility

The ZIG M1911 A1's internal components are compatible with those of the Colt 70 series , making maintenance and customization easy for shooters looking to tailor their weapon to their preferences.
