Equipped with a lamp or laser cable management system. Available in black or FDE

- Machined from reinforced polymer
- Angle of 86°
- Textured surface for better grip
- Discreet design with small footprint

The STRIKE INDUSTRIES angled handstop not only acts as a foregrip improving weapon control.

Its cable management system allows you to organize your lamp or laser with remote switch to place the cables against the handguard, and store excess cable within the handstop.

Its angular design makes it easier to grip weapons, reduces fatigue and tension in the wrist.

Usable on both sides, it allows you to adapt to different shooting positions.

Its robustness and design make it perfect for "barricade" type use. When firing on support, it can be struck roughly against the support in order to stabilize the weapon.
