The PX-9 DUTY comes with 6 sets of grip backs and side plates to adapt its pistol grip width to the shooter's body shape.

Its removable magwell makes it easy to insert a magazine and also ensures excellent grip on the edge of the weapon.

Its high GLOCK-compatible sights allow Co-Witness aiming when an RMR-type red dot is mounted.

Ergonomically, the PX-9 features grip grooves on the front and rear of the slide, making it easier to maneuver the weapon.

In terms of safety, the pistol is equipped at the rear of the slide with a bright red indicator, both visual and tactile, allowing you to check whether the firing pin is cocked.

At the ejection window, the extractor also has a bright red part, which when it pops out allows you to check that a round is chambered.
