A rifle designed for driven hunts

In a dynamic hunt, every second counts. The lever-action rifle offers smooth and instinctive reloading, particularly appreciated in driven hunts for big game . Compact (95 cm) and well-balanced, it easily maneuvers through undergrowth or from a narrow hunting stand.

Anti-corrosion finish: a real asset in the field

The metal components benefit from a special anti-corrosion treatment. Morning dew, light rain, or temperature variations... this protection enhances the weapon's durability against the weather conditions encountered while hunting. It's precisely the kind of detail you appreciate after several seasons.

Ergonomic technopolymer stock

The technopolymer stock reduces the overall weight (3.5 kg) while ensuring strength and stability. Its adjustable cheekpiece allows for optimal alignment with iron sights or hunting optics. The textured coating improves grip, even with gloves or in wet conditions.

19" barrel: compromise between maneuverability and performance

At 483 mm, the barrel offers a suitable balance for hunting in wooded areas . The 6 grooves and the 1:18" (460 mm) twist rate ensure effective stabilization of the projectile according to the chosen caliber, promoting accuracy and consistency at short and medium ranges - typical distances for driven hunts.

Additional details

- Stock finish: textured surface with a raised effect

FAQ

Is this rifle suitable for driven hunts?

Yes. Its compact size, 19-inch barrel and rapid reloading via lever under the trigger make it a particularly suitable solution for driven hunts and short or medium-range shooting.

What are the purchasing conditions in France?

Depending on the caliber, this rifle is classified in category C. Its acquisition requires a valid hunting permit with annual validation or a valid sport shooting license.

Does an adjustable stock offer a real advantage for hunting?

Yes, the adjustable cheek piece allows for precise alignment of the eye with the sights or compatible optics, improving comfort and speed of target acquisition during hunting.
