A more natural user experience on an AR platform

In a dynamic setup, the pronounced angle of this grip is immediately noticeable. It promotes a more direct hand position, particularly advantageous on AR-15 and AR-10 platforms used at the range, on the course, or on a compactly mounted rifle. This geometry contributes to more responsive handling, with a clear sense of control right from the start.

Slim profile and optimized maneuverability

The Amend2 PG-E features a slim design that fits comfortably in the hand without adding bulk. In practice, this form factor remains ideal for mobile setups, where every detail counts in terms of ergonomics and speed of execution. It's exactly the kind of accessory you choose to maintain a clean, lightweight, and efficient look.

Aggressive texture for constant control

The pronounced grid pattern improves grip in various conditions: wet hands, gloves, repeated handling, etc. The textured surface provides a firm, non-slip contact, helping to maintain a consistent grip on the weapon over time. Even better, the lateral texture enhances stability without making the grip uncomfortable for extended periods.

High-strength polymer construction

Made from impact-resistant nylon polymer, the Amend2 PG-E was designed to withstand heavy use while maintaining a low weight. This material choice meets the expectations of users looking for a durable component that is easy to integrate and compatible with a modern AR-platform semi-automatic rifle setup.

Integrated storage compartment

A detail often appreciated in the field: the handle incorporates a storage compartment for carrying small, useful accessories, such as batteries or a lens cleaning cloth. This discreet storage space adds a real practical dimension without altering the overall design of the handle.

Available finishes and colours

This model is available in black and FDE, two finishes that are easy to integrate into simple, tactical, or two-tone mounts. The overall look remains clean, with a functional aesthetic true to the Amend2 spirit. This accessory is easy to stock in gun shops or accessory sections, thanks to its broad compatibility and clear product identification.
