Designed for active hunting in dense environments

When vegetation becomes aggressive, reliable equipment is essential. The Beretta Thorn Resistant EVO was designed for driven hunts or moving through dense cover. Its robust construction allows you to advance confidently, even in the thickest brambles.

Enhanced abrasion protection

The most exposed areas - shoulders, elbows, and jacket hem - benefit from specific reinforcements. The result: excellent wear resistance and increased durability, even under heavy use. The fabric's strength is immediately apparent, without excessive stiffness.

Balanced waterproofing and breathability

Thanks to the BWB EVO membrane, this jacket offers effective protection against rain while allowing the body to breathe. In practice, this prevents the feeling of internal dampness during active periods - a real advantage during long days in the field.

Ergonomics designed for the field

An adjustable hood that doesn't obstruct vision, numerous accessible pockets, a functional rear game bag... every detail has its purpose. The Beretta Hands Free system even allows you to effortlessly carry the jacket over your shoulders during breaks.

Increased visibility and safety

Its high-visibility orange color enhances safety during group activities, while remaining compliant with the requirements of modern hunting. A crucial balance between discretion in the field and human visibility.

- Visibility standard: EN20471 (depending on version)
- Lining: Stretch for freedom of movement
- Logo: Beretta rubberized handle
- Compatibility: Thorn Resistant EVO GTX Pants
