Precision Match and controlled expansion for shooting and hunting.

Sierra MatchKing X bullets are high-performance bullets combining match precision and controlled expansion for target shooting and hunting.

- Type: HPBT (Hollow Point Boat Tail)
- Use: precision shooting and hunting
- Calibers: wide range available
- Profile: Identical to classic MatchKing
- Core: softer lead
- Expansion: optimized for intermediate speeds

Consult the reloadable calibers based on the diameter of Sierra bullets.

An evolution of the legendary MatchKing

The MatchKing X (MKX) retains everything that made the MatchKing series so successful: consistency, accuracy, and a high ballistic coefficient. But it goes further, with a design conceived to offer true effectiveness on live targets.

Same profile, simplified transition

Good news for reloaders: the external profile is identical to classic MatchKing revolvers . This allows for the same tool settings, particularly regarding seating depth. This means you can switch seamlessly between precision shooting and hunting without complex adjustments.

Controlled expansion and optimized energy

Thanks to a softer lead core and a redesigned tip, the MKX offers reliable expansion at mid-range speeds. Energy is better transferred upon impact, while maintaining a stable and predictable trajectory.

High precision and ballistic coefficient

The HPBT design ensures excellent flight stability. The boat tail reduces drag, while the ogive maintains a high ballistic coefficient comparable to traditional MatchKing bullets. The result: consistent accuracy and good wind resistance.

Versatility for shooting and hunting

The Sierra MatchKing X is designed for shooters who no longer want to choose between precision and terminal performance. It naturally finds its place in both long-range shooting and hunting , particularly at intermediate distances.

Additional features

- Manufacturing: match tolerances
- Use: reloading
- Applications: sport shooting and hunting

FAQ

What is the difference with a classic MatchKing?

The MatchKing X retains the accuracy of the MatchKing series but adds controlled expansion suitable for hunting.

Should I adjust my reloading settings?

No, since the profile is identical, the depth settings can remain the same.

Are these bullets suitable for hunting?

Yes, they are designed to offer reliable expansion while maintaining excellent accuracy.
