A breathable design suitable for long sessions

On the field or at the shooting range, hand comfort quickly makes a difference. The CORSO Skull MK2 Black Gloves use a breathable, stretchy fabric on the back of the hand and fingers to minimize overheating while maintaining excellent freedom of movement. This flexible structure naturally conforms to the hand and provides a very comfortable, secure fit from the first use.

Optimized mobility for precise handling

The integration of elastane in strategic areas significantly improves finger flexibility. Every movement becomes smoother, which is particularly appreciated during the rapid handling of tactical accessories, airsoft replicas, or shooting equipment. The elastic articulation at the knuckles provides added comfort without stiffening the hand.

High-performance grip and controlled performance

The palm features a special texture that combines strength and grip. This finish improves handling and provides better control during dynamic movements. In practice, this translates to a more secure and stable grip, even during rapid or prolonged actions.
