A vest designed for mobility in the field

The Beretta EVO Strap Vest was developed for hunters who prioritize lightness and freedom of movement without sacrificing carrying capacity. Thanks to its ergonomic shoulder strap design, the weight of the equipment is better distributed across the shoulders and chest, significantly improving comfort during long marches.

In practice, this type of setup is particularly appreciated during active hunts, both in plains and in forests, where every movement must remain fluid and natural.

Multiple settings for a precise adjustment

The numerous adjustable straps allow the vest to be easily adapted to different body shapes or the thickness of clothing worn depending on the season. The adjustable shoulder straps, waist belt, side straps, and chest strap ensure stable support even during fast-paced movement.

This system also helps to limit unwanted movement of the equipment during the hunting action - a detail that experienced users immediately notice in the field.

Efficient organization of equipment

The three front pockets keep essential accessories within easy reach: cartridges , documents, small equipment, or field gear. At the rear, the large, spacious pocket effectively expands storage capacity.

The integrated, washable game bag provides a practical solution for carrying game after the hunt. Easy to clean, it improves everyday comfort and simplifies vest maintenance after each outing.

Outdoor durability and versatility

Its robust polyester construction ensures long-lasting resistance to friction and the stresses of the terrain. Lightweight and compact, this vest is also ideal for various outdoor activities or shooting disciplines requiring quick access to equipment.

- Use: Active hunting, small game, outdoor
- Comfort: Balanced weight distribution
- Adjustments: Ergonomic multi-point adjustment
