An essential component for feeding the marbles

The ARCTURUS RS® Hi-Capa SEFP™ magazine lips ensure that BBs remain securely in the magazine while allowing for consistent release during the firing cycle. Their precision is essential for the proper functioning of a gas blowback replica and contributes to the overall reliability of the feeding system.

The SEFP™ polymer for enhanced strength

Made from SEFP™ (Super Enhanced Formulated Polymer) , these magazine lips benefit from a specific formulation offering excellent resistance to wear and impacts. This technical material ensures precise dimensions despite the repeated stresses of loading and operating the magazine.

Durability suitable for intensive use

The manufacturer states that the design offers improved durability and impact resistance compared to a standard design. This feature helps maintain the quality of BB retention and the proper functioning of the magazine over time.

Compatible with Tactical Vanguard magazines

These magazine lips are specifically designed for ARCTURUS Tactical Vanguard Hi-Capa magazines . They directly replace the original lips and meet the manufacturer's specifications to guarantee perfect compatibility.

An essential maintenance part

Magazine lips are among the components most exposed during handling and reloading. Replacing them ensures a consistent feed of BBs and extends the magazine's lifespan.
