A traditional lever action rifle designed for big game hunting.

Some hunting rifles are simply so excellent that they remain references more than a century after their creations like this Winchester 1886 faithfully reproduced by Chiappa firearms.

Produced from 1897 until 1935, the Winchester was resurrected as the Model 1886 by CHIAPPA FIREARMS.

The original Winchester Model 1886 was created by gunsmith John Moses Browning. It enjoyed immediate success in caliber 45/70, particularly for sports shooting, and was the favorite weapon of Théodore ROOSEVELT, known for taking his 1886 everywhere.

The 1886 CHIAPPA is chambered in .45-70 caliber which remains a preferred choice for big game hunters. It is a faithful reproduction of the original, combined with modern technologies, its barrel is particularly adapted to current ammunition.
